Elvis Costello, left, and the Police will be at Red Rocks on July 21

Cherry Creek North is about to get three new joints.

Soleil Mediterranean Grill & Wine Bar at Third and Fillmore is set to open two new places downstairs and next door, The Q Worldly Barbeque and The Q Blues & Jazz Bar.

The BBQ will open in March — with "delicately smoked dry-rubbed meats" and a "worldly sauce bar." Huh boy. The jazz bar will be next door with local, live musicians Wednesday-Sunday nights.

Second Home Kitchen and Bar will open March 3 in the JW Marriott. The space in the back of the hotel lobby has been totally remodeled after a bumpy run with Mirepoix. The wine wall is still there, but the bar's all new and bigger, the dining room has nudged into the patio area with doors that open wide in the summer. A manager promised me reasonable prices, nothing over $29, no wines over $60. Pizza. Rotisserie. "Old meets new comfort food."

Back to the Butte.

Just in time for Valentine's Day comes a new Harlequin American Romance novel from Bailey's Cindi Myers.

This is her 32nd book, "The Right Mr. Wrong," and her second set in Crested Butte, the snowed-in romantic headquarters of the Western Slope. Town motto: "You don't lose your girlfriend, you just lose your turn."

Myers says all her romance novels feature "a small town in America with unique characters."

Crested Butte has to be the jackpot.

"I love Crested Butte," she says. "It's one of my favorite places. The town actually becomes a character in the book."

The heart-thumper features local bars and festivals.

"They celebrate everything there," Myers says.

In this outing, two ski patrollers fall in love.

Myers says she focuses on the experience of falling in love. She leaves out the part where love is a rat hole.

And of course there's a happy ending. "That's the promise to the reader," she says.

To further celebrate love, Myers will be playing love songs on G. Brown' radio show 9-10 a.m. Saturday on KCUV-102.3 FM.
